

Talking Lines on Charts & Lump Sums on What'd You Miss

I was on What'd You Miss? again Friday afternoon chatting with Scarlet, Julia, and Joe. I always have a good time talking with these three.

We touched on two recent pieces I wrote -- one about the 200-day moving average and the other about the lump sum vs. dollar cost averaging decision when investing cash in this market.

We discussed how to have situational awareness about certain types of market environments, what moving averages can tell you about the markets, the psychology behind putting cash to work at above-average valuations and much more (skip ahead to the 31 min, 45 sec mark):

And read more here:

The 200-Day Moving Average

Lump Sum vs. Dollar Cost Averaging